Academics

Special Student Status

Special status students at National American University (NAU) are those students who wish to take NAU courses, but who are not seeking a degree from the university. These students may be pursuing courses for their own personal interest, for transfer to another institution, for career advancement, or in preparation to apply to the university for a new degree program. Prospective special status students must meet the educational requirements specified. Some courses are available only to degree-seeking students.

Special status students who become degree-seeking must complete the university's entry process, including entry testing and placement as applicable, and must complete all required courses and their prerequisites per university policy.

National American University does not offer financial aid to special status students.
